“The Design Thinking tool/process is simple and very practical in specific settings, which I really love, and I have also identified opportunities where I could integrate it in my field of work. I see real opportunity in my work in helping develop local community leaders in project decision making and problem solving. My goal is to hear local leaders in the future use the word ‘prototype` when they define and create solutions! Overall, Design Thinking ensures balance between quality, strategic thinking and quick resolution of problems or response to needs.”
